

Leather Care

TempleFurniture | ParkerSouthern

Have leather professionally cleaned when needed. To keep it looking good, vacuum or lightly brush often to remove dirt.

Dust weekly with a soft cloth lightly dampened with Leather Master Soft Cleaner, or use your vacuum's soft brush attachment. Leather doesn't trap dust, making it great for those with dust sensitivities.

Apply Leather Master Protection Cream to Aniline and Protected leathers to help prevent stains, focusing on high-use areas like seats, arms, and backs.

Deep clean with Leather Master Soft Cleaner every six months (or more often for Aniline leather in busy areas), then reapply Protection Cream.

Never use harsh chemicals, solvents, or oils, as they can damage the leather.

Regular use of Leather Master Protection Products will extend the usable life of your leather.

Aniline

HAND OR COMFORT: Excellent

NATURAL MARKINGS: Visible

COLOR: Shading is normal

CLEANABILITY: Moderate

RESISTANCE TO FADING: Low

Avoid direct sunlight. This is the most natural type of leather, with no protective coating or treatments. It has the softest, most buttery feel, but is less resistant to wear. Aniline leather is best for accent pieces with light to moderate use.

Semi-Aniline

HAND OR COMFORT: Excellent

NATURAL MARKINGS: Slightly Visible

COLOR: Shading is normal

CLEANABILITY: Moderate

RESISTANCE TO FADING: Low

More durable than Aniline with a light surface coating. This type of leather is the ideal choice for regular use in households.

Protected

HAND OR COMFORT: Moderate

NATURAL MARKINGS: Hidden

COLOR: Uniform

CLEANABILITY: Excellent

RESISTANCE TO FADING: High

This leather is dyed through and coated with a thick, colored protective layer. It's often buffed or sanded to remove flaws, then embossed with an artificial grain. While the look is more uniform and less textured, it's the most durable, easy to clean, and perfect for busy family rooms.

Exotics

HAND OR COMFORT: Excellent

NATURAL MARKINGS: Varies

COLOR: Shading is normal

CLEANABILITY: Low to Moderate

RESISTANCE TO FADING: Low

This leather can range from embossed styles to hair-on-hide. It's unprotected, so each piece has unique shading and color variations. It's a statement of luxury and works best as an accent—perfect for ottomans, benches, borders, or the outside of arms and backs.
